

CARLY AHLMAN

New York City based Carly Ahlman is principal of Carly Ahlman Design, LLC, a full service interior design studio focused on high-end single family residential interior design, completing projects in a variety of styles from coast to coast, including those featured in the photos here, but also expanding their reach into the Caribbean.

When considering their mission—to create functional, beautiful spaces that are a true reflection of each client—one important consideration is comfort, and fans that help them achieve comfort and beauty in each design. “When it comes to fans, we like to ensure the style and finish complement the architecture and design without distracting from the overall aesthetic of the space,” said Ahlman.

Her firm’s love for Big Ass Fans is unabashed. “We specifically love the Haiku fan line. It is surprisingly hard to find a nice looking ceiling fan that has the right finishes, function and holds up well over time. With Big Ass Fans we know that each piece will complement the overall design.”

For a residence in Baker's Bay, Bahamas, Ahlman needed a fan with a contemporary look and feel for a modern beach house. "The Haiku fan has clean lines and a great finish," said Ahlman. "It is hard to find products that hold up well over time in the Bahamas, but Haiku fans have done that for us time and again."
